

and displaces Sun Microsystems—the incumbent provider.

SDTV is poised to record rapid growth by adding more innovative features, services and channels in its offerings. To keep up with customer demand, it plans to implement a CRM platform for six million subscribers with the goal of reaching 10 million subscribers by 2010.

Under the terms of the agreement, IBM will build and maintain a dynamic infrastructure for SDTV that will leverage IBM Global Business Service's experience in the direct-to-home (DTH) TV market. In addition to providing SDTV with application management services, IBM will help SDTV to expand its billing portfolio enabling it to efficiently handle rapid customer acquisition across India. The deal also includes IBM hardware and software.
