year, Sony has launched the 'W' series of MP3 players. It plans to sell 180,000 units by year 2010. The company had sold around 85,000 units last year and currently enjoys a 20 per cent market share.

The MP3 market in India is currently pegged at 900,000 units and is expected to increase 11 per cent by FY2010.

Aplab forms JV with Petrotec

Aplab Limited has formed a joint venture with Petrotec India, which manufactures and exports ATEX-approved precision hydraulic pumps and metering units to Europe as OEM systems. Petrotec Group operates in four continents and is said to be the fifth largest producer of fuel and LPG pumps, manufacturing annually over 11,000 multi-product fuel dispensers from its plant in Portugal.

This alliance combines Aplab's skills in quality engineering, embedded and network software, and call-centre based nationwide field service network with Petrotec's expertise in the international market, its huge installed base of equipment and ability to design and offer retailing equipment that are fully compliant with current European standards in metrology, safety regulations and fuel recovery. It will enable the Aplab-Petrotec combine to offer European-standards-compliant multi-product dispensers and such other products to customers in India at competitive prices.

LG reduces greenhouse gas emissions

LG Electronics has successfully reduced 2.1 million tonnes of greenhouse gas emissions in the first half of 2009—two million tonnes through greater energy efficiency and an additional 100,000 tonnes through improved manufacturing processes. Overall, the company saw a reduction of about seven and five per cent in greenhouse gas emissions from the production and operation of its products across both domestic and overseas facilities.

Earlier this year, LG had committed to a goal of annually reducing 150,000 tonnes of greenhouse gas emissions that are normally created during the production process and 30 million tonnes from the use of its products by the year 2020.

The company has banned the use of toxic materials and completed a greenhouse gas audit for its domestic production sites, and is now working to measure emissions in 32 overseas production facilities.
