Schneider acquires Conzerv Systems

French engineering group Schneider Electric is acquiring India's Conzerv Systems—a company into design, development and implementation of energy management systems for industrial applications. Conzerv is claimed to have pioneered the design and manufacture of digital energy meters in India since the early 90s. Today, it generates sales in excess of Euro 10 million and employs 337 people.

With this acquisition, Schneider Electric will reinforce its position to capture opportunities in the fast-growing energy efficiency field in India. Conzerv products will also complete Schneider Electric's offering in power
