EFY EXPO INDIA 2014

WHAT YOU HAVE MISSED

The buoyant response to India's mega electronics show—Electronics For You Expo 2014 (EFY Expo)—truly proved it to be an Indian exhibition for the global electronics industry. An enthusiastic electronics industry converged at this extravaganza, held at Pragati Maidan, New Delhi, from February 20-22, 2014.

Started in 2011, EFY Expo entered its fourth year, with an even better platform for business and networking. With over 166 exhibitors showcasing their products under one roof, this electronics exposition turned out to be an appropriate platform for innovators, design engineers, manufacturers and traders of electronic systems and components. With the sole aim of accelerating the growth of the electronics industry in India, the Expo focussed not only on components and manufacturing equipment but the entire ecosystem.

The Expo had bustling activities on all three days and also led to some serious long-term business decisions being actualised by manufacturers and their buyers. Packed conferences and seminars running in parallel to the Expo provided an informative insight into the Indian electronics industry. These proved beneficial for senior-level decision makers within the industry and for design engineers.

With an impressive footfall of over 11,643 visitors, the Expo saw many happy exhibitors and satisfied buyers. It offered business opportunities in various electronics sectors including components, test and measurement equipment, training and educational solutions, PCB manufacturing, electronics manufacturing services (EMS) and electronics design.
