

More capabilities. More standards. Most ROI.

Sustained return on investment is a top priority in testing.

The R&S®CMW 500, the first all-in-one wireless tester on the market, helps you achieve this. Featuring a modular and future-ready design, the tester gives chipset and wireless device manufacturers as well as network operators a powerful and flexible platform – one they can fully rely on for all relevant tests on multitechnology wireless devices

- in development, production and service
- for RF, protocol and application development
- for current and future cellular and noncellular standards

Want to be first in your business? The R&S®CMW 500 is the right tool to put you in the lead.
