Simulation control window. Users can start, stop and pause the simulation from here.

Adding sensor notes

Once the simulation window is opened, notes can be added to the simulation using Menu: Motes→Add Motes.

Since we are adding notes for the first time, the type of mote has to be specified. There are more than ten types of notes supported by Contiki. Here are some of them—MicaZ, Sky, Trxeb1120, Trxeb2520, cc430, ESB, eth11, Exp2420, Exp1101, Exp1120, WisMote and Z1.

Contiki will generate object codes for these notes to run on real hardware and also on the simulator, if the hardware platform is not available.

Step 1. To add a mote, go to Add Motes→Select any of the notes given above→MicaZ mote; you will get the screen shown in Fig. 5.

Step 2. Cooja opens the Create Mote Type dialogue box,
