

▲ Robin Harris, Jetking, with EFY Award for training institutions

▲ N. Chandramohan (R), Juki, receiving EFY Award for pick-and-place machines (SMT)

▲ Anil Kumar Muniswamy, PCB Power, with EFY Award for PCB manufacturers

▲ Sanjiv Pandey (R), SGS Teknisk, receiving EFY Award for EMS firm

▲ Inderdeep Singh, Electronics Man of the Year, with his wife

▲ Sunil Vachani (R), Dixon Technologies, receiving Jury Award for Electronics Organisation of the Year

▲ Audience at the EFY Awards ceremony

METHODOLOGY

EFY Readers' Choice Awards. Readers of Electronics For You and its sister publication Electronics Bazaar voted for the top brands. Though most of the readers who voted are magazines' subscribers, other readers too were approached through telecalling, personal interviews at events like EFY Expo and online (on EFY Awards website) to get their views.

Feedback was sought of distinguished readers from the industry, design engineering community, entrepreneurs, trade and even the academia, though opinions of students were not included.

Jury Awards. Jury members from DIT, CMAI, CLIK, SEMI, ELCINA and CII were instrumental in deciding the winners for special categories—'Electronics Man of the Year,' 'Electronics Organisation of the Year' and 'Lifetime Achievement Award.' The jury nominated individuals or organisations for the Awards, and then a winner was selected through consensus after discussion or through voting.