

Android Tablet

Samsung Galaxy Tab 620 is an upgraded version of the original Galaxy Tab

Powered by a 1.2GHz dual-core processor, Galaxy Tab 620 is the latest entrant in India from Samsung's stable of tablets. This 17.8cm (7-inch) tablet is an enhanced version of Samsung's P1000. It is 9.9mm thin and light-weight.

Galaxy Tab 620 runs on Android Honeycomb 3.2 OS and has Samsung's proprietary TouchWiz UX as the user interface. The HSPA+ allows data speeds of up to 21 Mbps. The tablet features a high-resolution capacitive touchscreen, dedicated graphics chip, 1GB RAM, TV out, built-in DivX/MP4 video support, HD video recording and 16GB memory (expandable up to 32 GB). The Cisco WebEx solution allows you to join meetings with its integrated audio, view applications and documents, and have private conversations in the meeting.

It is one of the two high-end tablets currently available in the Indian market that can make voice calls. Additional features include a vertical-mode basic layout, optimised readability, a video maker and the option to create folders.

Price: ₹ 27,213

CDMA Tablet

RCom launches India's first CDMA tablet with 40 per cent discount plan

The Reliance CDMA Tab is India's first tablet that runs on CDMA network. Based on Android 2.3 OS (Gingerbread), the device can be used wherever CDMA network of Reliance is available in India. It features an 800MHz processor and 512MB RAM. The 4GB microSD card can be expanded up to 32 GB. Additionally, the 17.8cm (7-inch) tablet sports a 2-megapixel rear camera, a VGA front camera to make video calls, Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, GPS and mobile TV.

Reliance is offering a special 40 per cent discount plan along with the tablet. The tablet also comes with one-year free subscription to McAfee Mobile Security, two-months of free subscription to BIGFLIX+ and free international calls worth Rs 250 on Reliance Global Call.

Price: ₹ 13,000

Ultrabook

The Dell XPS13 is 1.8cm thick and weighs less than 1.4 kg

The Dell XPS13 Ultrabook has arrived in India. This laptop is just 1.8 cm thick and weighs less than 1.4 kg. Users can choose between the Intel Core i5 2467M and Core i7 2637M configurations. The laptop is armed with 4 GB of DDR3 RAM, 128GB or 256GB SSD depending on the configuration, Intel HD 3000 graphics, Wi-Fi, Bluetooth 3.0 and 1.3-megapixel webcam with dual-array microphones.

The Ultrabook has a 33.8cm (13.3-inch) screen with Gorilla Glass, which is an LED display with resolution of 1366x768 pixels. Its six-cell battery with a rating of 47 Wh can last up to nine hours.

For toughness, the laptop base is made of carbon fibre.

The laptop comes preloaded with Windows 7 Home Premium.

Price: ₹ 80,000

