Indian tablet market to grow 40 per cent annually

MAIT recently announced its findings on the tablet revolution underway in the Indian market. The tablet market, pioneered by the launch of iPad in

The tablet market is the new blue-eyed growth opportunity in India

2010, has been growing rapidly and the study puts the growth rate at 40 per cent over the next five years, compounded annually.

Commenting on this new opportunity, Dr Alok Bhardwaj, president, MAIT, said, "Tablets will soon enable and empower even our rural areas with services bridging the last-mile connectivity gap through these devices. We expect the market to touch 1.6 million units in the current financial year and grow to touch 7.3 million units by 2015-16."

LED bulbs could cost Rs 250 by 2015

The prices of LED bulbs and tubes are likely to come down drastically in the next two to three years. "In the last few years, while the lighting efficiency (in terms of lumens per watt) has gone up by 15 to 20 per cent year-on-year, prices of lighting products have come down by more than 30 per cent," said Indranil Goswami, director, Lighting Controls, Philips Electronics India.

Currently, the long-lasting and branded LED lighting products cost 15 times more than the conventional ones
