

A Networking Approach to Grid Computing

Targeted at the IT user community, this book provides a comprehensive overview of grid computing technology from networking perspective. With emphasis on the communication apparatus, it explores practical advantages of grid computing, and what an organisation requires to move to this computing paradigm.

Meant for practitioners and decision makers alike, the text explores the practical utility of the technology, with minimal theoretical or research-level exposition. The book is divided into ten chapters that discuss topics including grid benefits and status of the technology, components and architecture, standards supporting grid computing, and communication systems for national and global grids.

By: Daniel Minoli
Published by: Wiley India (P) Ltd
 4435-36/7, Ansari Road,
 Daryaganj, New Delhi 110002
Pages: 377
Price: Not mentioned

Advanced Microprocessors: Second Edition

Intended as a reference text on advanced top-level microprocessors, this book discusses microprocessors including Pentium, PowerPC, DEC Alpha AXP, SuperSPARC, microprocessors without interlocked pipeline stages (MIPS) like R4400, MC88110 and HP PA-RISC. Readers are assumed to have some basic understanding of logic circuitry and basic computer organisation.

In this second edition, the detailed presentation of the system architecture is given in the beginning followed by a short description of its implementations. In Part 1 (General Principles), the first two chapters have been completely rewritten to reflect changes in the modern microprocessor environment.

By: Daniel Tabak
Published by: Tata McGraw-Hill
 Publishing Company, 7 West
 Patel Nagar, New Delhi, 110008
Price: Rs 395

By: William C.Y. Lee
Published by: Wiley India (P) Ltd
 4435-36/7, Ansari Road, Daryaganj, New Delhi 110002
Pages: 372; Price: Not mentioned

Mobile Communications Design Fundamentals: Second Edition

This book covers the what, why and how of mobile radio systems design. In this second edition, added material such as CDMA and microcell technologies aids in understanding and developing mobile radio systems including the future personal communications service (PCS).

Besides addition of chapters on cellular CDMA and microcell systems, the discussion on microcell prediction model, spectrum efficiency and cellular systems, base station design and field component diversity antennae is expanded. To make the book suitable for graduate course, there are problems added at the end of each chapter.