HP's Wi-Fi mouse connects without a USB dongle

Enjoy the freedom of no wires or receivers with HP's Wi-Fi Mobile Mouse, which connects using your PC's built-in Wi-Fi receiver. The mouse instantly reconnects during each use and operates without interference from other wireless devices. Its sculpted form with rubber sides ensures a comfortable grip whether you are right- or left-handed.

The mouse offers up to nine months of battery life. Five customisable buttons allow users to create shortcuts for common actions such as cut, paste, undo and redo. Its four-way-tilt scroll wheel improves control while scrolling up and down or side to side. The mouse features full functionality up to 9 metres from the PC.

Monochrome inkjet printer

Added to the K-series line-up, Epson K300 is an all-in-one monochrome inkjet printer with an auto document feeder. Like other Epson K-series printers, this model is designed to help customers lower the cost of printing with the company-claimed lowest black-page-printing cost of 0.60 paise per page.

The printer can print 16 pages per minute (ppm) in default mode and 37 ppm in draft mode. Its built-in duplexer helps printing on both sides of the paper.

The printer has a 250-sheet paper tray and 1200x2400-dpi A4 flatbed scanner.
