

► Ranjan Manish (L), Jetking, receiving EFY Award for Training Institutes (Electronics)

► N. Chandramohan (L), Juki India, receiving EFY Award for Pick & Place Machines (SMT)

► Paresh Vasani (L), PCB Power, receiving EFY Award for Printed Circuit Boards

► Nikhil Rao (L), Flextronics, receiving EFY Award for EMS Organisations

► A section of the audience enjoying at EFY Awards ceremony

► Retronome group performing at EFY Awards Ceremony

► Jury members of the EFY Awards: (L-R) Rajoo Goel, secretary general, ELCINA; Suresh Khanna, secretary general, CEAMA; Dr D. S. Rawat, secretary general, ASSOCHAM and Dr R. C. Chopra, senior advisor, CII

METHODOLOGY

EFY Readers' Choice Awards are based on the votes cast by readers of Electronics For You and its sister publication Electronics Bazaar. Apart from the magazine subscribers, voting was also done by approaching readers through telecalling, personal interviews at events like EFY Expo, and through EFY Awards website.

Feedback of distinguished readers from the industry, the design engineering community, entrepreneurs, trade and even the academia were also considered while deciding about the winners but opinions of students were not included.

Jury Awards. Members from ELCINA, CEAMA, ASSOCHAM and CII, which constituted EFY Jury, were instrumental in deciding the winners for special categories—"Electronics Leader of the Year", 'Electronics Organisation of the Year', 'Lifetime Achievement Award', besides 'Best initiative by a Government Body/PSU' and the two 'Certificates of Excellence' instituted this year. The jury nominated individuals or organisations for the Awards, and then a winner was selected through consensus after discussion or through voting.