with any Indian part number," explains Soparkar.

Looking forward

"With trend towards miniaturisation, SMD components demand is going to increase. Also, due to the technology development in materials, it is now possible to achieve higher power dissipation in small sizes. This also adds to the SMD component usage," feels Soparkar.

So it is high time India encouraged SMD component manufacture. As mentioned earlier, one of the reasons for lower share of indigenous component production is the lack of technology. In order to address this issue, ELCINA has suggested development of R&D centres under public-private partnership with focus on SMT.

"May be with the new Modified Special Incentives Package (MSIP) policy of DeitY, many people would come forward to invest," hopes Soparkar. ●
