Bharti to partner with electronics manufacturer

Indian telecom conglomerate, Bharti Enterprises, is planning to start manufacturing set-top boxes, for which it is looking at partnering with an electronics manufacturer in the country. According to reports, Bharti is planning to make set-top boxes in Pune, in partnership with an electronics manufacturing company, in line with its commitment to support 'Make in India' initiative. The process of cable digitisation across India is underway in a phased manner, which is fuelling the demand for set-top boxes.

The government has mandated that cable TV transmission has to be done through digital addressable systems only, as consumers can access a larger number of TV channels compared to only 60 to 70 channels that can be accessed through analogue cable transmission. As per industry estimates, the cable digitisation programme has created a huge demand for set-top boxes, which is likely to reach 75 million units by 2016-17.

Micromax to increase production of TV panels

Consumer electronics company, Micromax, has plans to capture 15 per cent market share in the TV panel segment by 2016 and is planning to set up a new unit to ramp up production of budget-range models by investing up to ₹ 5 billion.

At present Micromax, which had forayed into TV panel segment in 2012, has an eight per cent share of the total market.

The company uses 50 per cent local components for its TV units and the rest are imported.
