

India Electronics Week 2016: THE NEW-AGE ELECTRONICS SHOW

One thing that set India Electronics Week (IEW) 2016 apart was the fact that a large fraction of its visitors were not regulars. For many, this was the first event that got them out of their offices. And going by their initial feedback, most were happy with their decision.

Six co-located shows, 16 conferences, 180-plus exhibitors, 10,000-plus visitors – a few figures to give you an idea about IEW 2016. The more interesting figures are 200-plus speakers, 3000-plus conference delegates, 30-plus per cent of visitors who travelled from outside Karnataka and, last but not the least, 35 per cent-plus who visited an electronics expo for the first time!

With such great response, it was natural for Electronics For You team to not shift from Bengaluru as the city of choice for next year's show, too. IEW 2017 is now all set to be held March 2-4, 2017 at BIEC, Bengaluru.

Through this brief report we attempt to share key highlights of what transpired at this year's IEW, with the hope that it will motivate you to experience the show first hand next year, rather than read about it here. Read on...
