

EFY Readers' Choice Awards 2009

■ HIMANSHU YADAV

The Sixth EFY Readers' Choice Awards 2009 was held amidst much fanfare, great enthusiasm, and feasting. The electronics fraternity was together at the awards ceremony, which honoured the best achievements of electronics companies in the country, at India Habitat Centre, New Delhi, on December 16, 2009.

During the ceremony, awards were presented in 30 categories, including the jury awards. These included 'Lifetime Achievement Award', 'Electronics Personality of the Year Award', 'Electronics Organisation of the Year Award' and 'Special Jury Award'. Among the 30 categories, 15 categories fell under core electronics, such as oscilloscopes, multi-meters, resistors and capacitors, and 12 came under consumer electronics, such as televisions, microwave ovens and DVD players. Sony received six nominations and dominated the evening by winning four awards including car and home music systems. The programme was sponsored by Microtek Technology, Amara Raja and Marg Swarnabhoomi.

The awards that consisted of a trophy each, were presented by the jury members and some VIPs attending the function. The ceremony was attended by the electronics fraternity including members of electronics associations, representatives of brands and captains of industry in large numbers.

EFY Enterprises has stepped into its fifth decade and, being a premiere publishing group for the electronics industry, it realises the importance of encouragement and support required by the fledgling electronics hardware industry for its development in India akin to the support received by the software industry sometime back.

Ever since its inception in 2004, the awards aimed at motivating, supporting and recognising outstanding brands, organisations and individuals, who have acted as catalysts in furthering the growth story of the Indian electronics industry.

Welcoming the nominees, guests and eminent members of the industry, Ramesh Chopra, managing director, EFY Enterprises, said, "The awards have evolved with time in response to the demands of and suggestions received from the stakeholders of the Indian electronics ecosystem and our numerous readers. This year EFY recognised the efforts on 'Indianisation' under three broad categories." These broad categories include:
