

NOISE CANCELLING HEADPHONES

QUIETCOMFORT 15 HEADPHONES FROM BOSE FEATURE THE NEW EAR CUSHION TECHNOLOGY THAT PROVIDES ADDITIONAL PASSIVE ATTENUATION

Bose has introduced the QuietComfort 15 acoustic noise cancelling headphones. The headphones offer more attenuation in louder environments and across a wider range of frequencies.

Features & USP.

The new ear cushion technology provides additional passive attenuation. It features a mechanical design and uses materials selected for specific acoustic properties to block more noise from entering the earcup.

According to the company, proprietary active equalisation technology electronically tunes the frequency response of the headphones, ensuring the accurate reproduction of instruments and vocals.

The headphones also feature Bose TriPort technology with small ports in the earcups that increase the low-frequency output of the system.

A single AAA battery powers the QC15 headphones for approximately 35 hours of use.

The green on/off indicator light flashes when there is approximately five hours of battery life remaining. For compact storage, the earcups rotate to a flat resting position and fit easily into the provided newly designed carrying case.
