

recently announced plans to buy at least 300,000 Ojo Vision digital video-phones from WorldGate.

Recent generations of videophones allow 450 kbps of throughput to provide quality video resolution.

The onslaught of high-speed Internet will make videoconferencing more prevalent. Dozens of competitors will enter the market in the next few years as customers realise the value of videoconferencing in communications. Amongst the existing lot, Cisco Systems recently purchased Tandberg and plans to launch a home-based videoconferencing system later this year.

Fakes big headache for consumer brands

Counterfeit electronic components and accessories are regularly infiltrating the legitimate supply chain and inventories of well-known consumer electronics companies globally, reports the Institution of Engineering and Technology. At least 5 per cent of the global electronics supply chain consists of counterfeit consumer electronics components and accessories that often cause critical failure or put an individual's data at risk.

In addition, most counterfeit storage components and accessories (such as USB keys, memory cards and digital photo frames) contain viruses or other types of malware that could compromise the security of consumers' personal data. Apparently, the origin of most counterfeit components is China, but India is also a major source.

CCTV sales to grow 34 per cent annually

A study by ReportLinker forecasts that the Indian CCTV market will grow at a CAGR of more than 34 per cent during 2010-12. The drivers for this growth, apart from terrorist attacks, are tremendous growth activity in the infrastructure sector across many Indian cities and demand for high security surveillance during international events like the Hockey World Cup, Indian Premier League and Commonwealth Games 2010.
