Solar installations to double in India in 2016

Mercom Capital Group, a global clean energy communications and research firm, has forecast more than 4GW in total solar installations for 2016, which is nearly 100 per cent year-over-year growth from the 2015 total of 2133MW. "The Indian solar sector is finally coming out of hibernation," said Raj Prabhu, CEO and co-founder of Mercom Capital Group. "Solar installations in 2015 increased by 142 per cent after three years of remaining flat, and we expect 2016 and 2017 to record strong growth," he added.

In January, the Union Cabinet approved amendments to the revised tariff policy. One of the most significant revisions is a Renewable Power Obligation (RPO), which would require that eight per cent of electricity consumption be procured from solar energy by March 2022. This is an important step towards achieving the 100GW goal, but the RPO will remain just a number without strict enforcement.

Thirty three solar parks approved across 21 Indian states

As per an official statement issued by Solar Energy Corp. of India (SECI) on February 21, SECI's managing director Ashvini Kumar stated, "As against 25 solar parks planned, the ministry (MNRE) has approved 33 solar parks in 21 states with an aggregate capacity of 19.9GW."

The states have currently received funding of ₹ 549.3 million, out of an overall fund of ₹ 3.74 billion for setting up of solar parks. Piyush Goyal, minister for power and new and renewable energy, conveyed to the parliamentary consultative committee of his ministry that the installed solar power capacity in India has crossed the 5GW mark in January, and is set to achieve the target of 18GW by the end of 2017.
