and increasing penetration of mobile phones and broadband in India, 86 per cent of leading marketers in India use e-marketing channel (e-mail and SMS) as the most vital client engagement platform—says a report from Octane Marketing.

According to the report, for majority of Indian marketers (97 per cent), e-mail and SMS platform proved its effectiveness in the usage and a substantial number of marketers (34 per cent) use this platform for daily communications with their audience.

The report also highlights the impact of multi-channel communication

(e-mail, SMS and social media). Eighty-two per cent of marketers believe that there is indeed a synergy in integrated service offering to customers. In terms of budget allocation for 2011, 72 per cent plan to increase investments in e-marketing platform. Out of this, a good 35 per cent plan to increase their e-marketing investments by more than 11 per cent.

Majority use Internet to decide travel plans

Majority of people in India use the Internet to firm up their travel plans, according to a report by digital marketing firm Experian Marketing Services.

The report says that travel decisions are influenced by word of mouth and references rather than just advertisements.

"The current traveller is more than ever reading and sharing travel-related content online, which has been created and posted by peers rather than by travel service providers. An evolved traveller starts planning the trip three months in advance by visiting travel related blogs, forums, travel related videos/photographs and travel review sites," says the report.

The findings of the report are based on an online competitive intelligence service that reports on over 200,000 sites and over six million search terms.

Batteries growing at 25 per cent annually

The battery industry in India comprising automobile, sealed maintenance-free (SMF), tubular and lead-acid batteries has been growing annually at a rate of 25 per cent for the last four years and will maintain this growth rate till 2015—according to Sunil Bhatnagar, director, sales and marketing, Artheon Electronics.

Presently, the battery market in India is worth Rs 100 billion, with automotive batteries accounting for over 65 per cent of the overall market value. While SMF valve-regulated lead-acid (VRLA) batteries have a share of 25-30 per cent, lead-acid batteries dominate the market with a 70-75 per cent share.

Electronics hardware still waiting for the big push

ELCINA Electronic Industries Association of India—an organisation committed to promotion of electronics manufacturing in the country—in its assessment of the recently announced union budget for 2011-12 has not found any headline reform in favour of electronics hardware.

Few years ago, the government had given a push for creation of special economic zones that yielded substantial results in terms of investment infu-
