

GAMING NOTEBOOK

MSI'S GX780 GIVES YOU THE EDGE IN BATTLE WITH ITS SERIOUS GAMERS KEYBOARD

MSI has introduced the GX780 gaming notebook with a keyboard specifically designed for gamers. The Windows key has been moved to the right side of the keyboard where you're less likely to strike it while playing a game. It also has larger Ctrl and Alt keys.

The 42.8x28.8x5.5cm³ notebook is powered by Intel's second-generation Core i7-2630QM quad-core processor and nVidia's GeForce GT 555M discrete graphics card, and has four DDR3 slots and accelerated dual hard disk architecture making it equally suitable for the digital content creator and the serious gamer. It also comes with a 30-colour LED-backlit keyboard with five modes, smart wrap-around sound and a 43.9cm (17.3-inch) full HD high-resolution display.

The key LED manager lets the user choose from several keyboard background lighting scenarios, including normal, gaming, wave, breathing and dual colour. The frequently used keys W, A, S, D and Ctrl are all backlit. Simply pressing the gaming mode hotkey lights up the LED backlighting at the bottom left side of the keyboard. The rest of the keyboard remains dark, so you can find the keys you need quickly even in the middle of a white-hot battle.

MULTI-TOUCH TABLET

ACER'S ICONIA TAB A500 IS HIGHLY INTUITIVE WITH ALL-POINT MULTI-TOUCH FUNCTIONALITY

Acer has launched Tab A500 tablet under its ICONIA series, on both Android Honeycomb 3.0 and Windows 7 platforms. The tablet has a highly intuitive all-point multi-touch functionality, which means that you can navigate seamlessly using all your fingers.

The 25.6cm (10.1-inch) fully capacitive touch screen tab ensures an optimal on-screen experience from every angle. The aluminium casing provides a cool look and feel, while its high-gloss finish with an engraved pattern demonstrates subtle sophistication.

Just 13.3mm thick, the tablet is equipped with a full-size USB port, mini USB port, HDMI output, Micro SD card and Sim Card support, acting as a multi-usage tablet with rich connectivity.
