

TOP 100 ELECTRONICS & IT COMPANIES IN INDIA

Electronics and IT companies in India seem to have recovered from the global recession in 2009-10 and are well on their way to growth, with the combined revenues of the top ten companies in 2010-11 going up by 21 per cent over previous year. However, this good news is dampened by the finding that at least ten companies out of the top 100 companies this year have reported losses; but there were thirteen last year!

Among the telecom companies, Bharti Airtel has retained its number one position, while Vodafone moved up from eighth to grab fifth position this year. On the other hand, Bharat Sanchar Nigam has gone down from second to third position, and Reliance Communications from sixth to eighth.

The IT industry has posted a significant increase in its total revenue, signifying a bounce-back from recession. Entry of a number of IT companies in this year's ranking has edged out some of the significant electronics players from their last year's positions. Major electronics companies that have shown a downslide from their previous positions are Bharat Electronics, Exide, Moser Baer, Micromax, MIRC, Amara Raja and Honeywell. Electronics companies like Delta, Ramakrishna Electro, Salora, MIC Electronics, Numeric, Epson, TVS and JCT Electronics have altogether failed to find a place in this year's ranking.

This list of Top 100 companies is compiled using revenue figures sourced directly from the companies or their balance sheets published on websites like that of Bombay Stock Exchange. The consolidated revenue for the previous financial year has been taken. As gross turnover may not be the ideal reflection of a company's performance, effort has been made to provide profit/loss figures as well. For all conversion purposes, we have taken $1 = Rs 44.72; Euro1 = Rs 66.56; and 1£ = Rs 75.23.

Disclaimer. While EFY editorial team has taken utmost care to contact all possible sources to make the ranking comprehensive, we may have inadvertently left out a few companies in this ranking. Some revenues are our own estimation based on company news. We solicit suggestions to make this report even better in the coming years.
